Third Example

This example is going to explain three important things about lists:

The individual list items are not renderd with a bullet.

It is probably just a question of style. I mean that I must define the right parameters in the stylesheet.

But the question arises of whether I should implement cascading stylesheets or not.

Ordered lists have similar problems:

The individual list items are not numbered.

Yes, it is a pity.

And to be short: lists in general aren't yet well implemented.